

State Education Accountability Reports and Indicator Reports: Status of Reports across the States—2003

Results of a 50-State Survey by the Council of Chief State School Officers

The Council of Chief State School Officers (CCSSO) is a bipartisan, nationwide, nonprofit organization of public officials who head departments of elementary and secondary education in the states, the District of Columbia, the Department of Defense Education Activity, and five U.S. extra-state jurisdictions. CCSSO provides leadership, advocacy, and technical assistance on major educational issues. The Council seeks member consensus on major educational issues and expresses their views to civic and professional organizations, federal agencies, Congress, and the public.

State Education Accountability Reports and Indicator Reports: Status of Reports Across the States—2003

During the past decade, states have taken an active role in regularly reporting to the public indicators of the status of public education, including results of student assessments, data on students and teachers, and school finance data. With the 2001 No Child Left Behind Act, federal accountability and reporting have been reinforced and expanded in several ways, in many cases resulting in an increase in the number of required indicators, data disaggregation, and specific reports required at the local, district, and state level. Together, these reports aim to provide a coherent picture of student performance and program effectiveness to parents, policy makers, and other stakeholders.

The Council of Chief State School Officers (CCSSO) worked with state departments of education to compile a summary document on the status of state education accountability and state education indicator reports as of September 2003. This compendium was designed to provide state-by-state information on the reports published annually by states, when they are produced, and the levels at which statistics are reports. A contact person is identified for each state report and a web site is listed whenever possible to facilitate easy access to these documents.

CCSSO conducted its first complete survey of all state education reports in 1994. For the 2003 edition, state education staff were asked to identify and update all current state reports (print or web) that function to provide educational accountability or indicator information for K-12 education. All of the reports listed on the following pages are produced and published by states, or published under a state mandate.

Following the state-by-state information on current reports on pages 11-16, CCSSO provides additional information on state reporting, "Methods of Reporting Student Achievement Results," which outlines the number of performance levels reported for student assessment information, information on data disaggregation, including race/ethnicity, gender, and poverty, and the number of years of data available.

The report is available on the CCSSO web site, www.ccsso.org.

This report was prepared by Abigail Potts, Andra Williams, Carlise Greenfield, with assistance from Carla Toye and Elizabeth Laird. Thank you to State Education Agency staff for their assistance. For further information on the annual update with states, contact Rolf Blank, Director of Education Indicators at RolfB@ccsso.org, or Abigail Potts, Senior Project Associate at AbbyP@ccsso.org.
